TRUMPET POLL

Vote Shows 'Ike Again' For 4 More

By Marsha Arhart

In a straw ballot taken at Thursday's convocation, a strong majority of the Wartburg Student Body was in favor of re-electing the Republican party to office.

In a large return of ballots, the percentage went like this:

	Rep.	Dem.	Un.
Women	85.4	12.2	2.4
Men	77.7	18.2	4.1

With election day only three days off, many good and bad things are being said throughout the United States about both parties. Here is what some Wartburgers have to say on the pertinent subject:

"We need Ike in time of peril!" stated one freshman girl, while another chimed in, "We need Eisenhower's calmness in times of stress."

Wants to Vote

One Democratic male said, "Surely wish I could vote." But his opposing classmate predicted a landslide victory for Ike.

A total number of 425 students voted in the unofficial election. Of that total, 220 were men with 205 ballots going to the women.

Statistics show 33 per cent of the men on campus eligible to vote and only 12 per cent of the women. County Auditor Ed Knott has urged all those people eligible to vote to do so, either by absentee or personal balloting.

"Mature college people should inform themselves on the correct way to vote," he said.

Campaign cries arose from many ballots. Republican students charged the opposition as "having no real statesmen," and the Democrats fought back with "Republicans are just for big business."

Sees Eisenhower Victory

One senior coed foresees Eisenhower winning, "but not with as strong a vote as he would have had a month ago."

Many Wartburg voters agreed that because of late warlike developments in the world the voting public will favor a military president in office.

Perhaps we should conclude with our friend Pogo's favorite slogan, "If you can't vote my way, vote anyway—but VOTE!"

Development Drive Hits $30,000

Campaign Launched Fri.; Will Continue Two Weeks

By Irmgard Feldmann

A total of $30,970 in advance gifts has been received in the Waverly Development Drive. The campaign began with a meeting of the solicitors for the general campaign Tuesday evening. The actual drive got under way yesterday and will continue through Nov. 16.

General chairman, Harry Hagemann, is a Waverly attorney. Hagemann, H. C. Nolting, Carl Hagemann, Dr. O. C. Hardwig, August Niewohner, the Rev. Martin Ackermann of the Development Office and President C. H. Becker have been soliciting for advance gifts.

Becker 'Gratified'

"Thus far we are gratified with the response of the community," said President Becker.

The faculty campaign will be conducted during the same time as the Waverly drive. The Rev. August Baetke, chairman of faculty soliciting, will be assisted by the Rev. Waldemar Gies, Dr. Elmer Hertel, Dr. Herbert Max, Richard Wiederanders, Raymond Norheim, and the Misses Erna Moehl, Hazel May Snyder, Mattie Harms and Viola Luhring.

Student Body Project, which will correspond with the two drives, will begin Monday, Nov. 12. The Student Senate will take definite action Monday, Nov. 5, to consider the use of the student contributions.

Bob Mattheis Chairman

Robert Mattheis is chairman of this project, and Arno Frerichs is publicity chairman. Other members on the committee are Gerri Bauer, Iris Heaney, Darold Beekmann, Donna Kramer and Bill Thalacker.

When the community held a campaign for expansion in 1944-45, about $100,000 was received, which was used for additional campus.

Carl Hagemann, one of the solicitors, made the following comment, "I think the advance campaign is satisfactory, and I feel sure that the businessmen and residents will support the campaign and will reach the goal. The people of Waverly realize the importance of Wartburg College to the community."

19th For Choir; 400th For Liemohn

SAY HELLO to the folks in Rentoul.

Choir Starts Annual Tour

Wartburg Choir began its 19th annual tour yesterday afternoon with 57 members, accompanied by Dr. Edwin Liemohn, director, and Mrs. Liemohn, leaving for their first stop, Monticello.

Liemohn will present his 400th concert with the choir at Madison, Wis., Nov. 11.

Opening with "Exultate Deo" by Scarlotti and followed by two numbers for double choir, "Lord, Who Is My Guide But Thee?" composed by Schuetz and "The Spirit Also Helpeth Us" by Bach, the tour program will continue with another Schuetz composition for choir and echo choir, "Psalm 100."

Folkerts, Mastin Soloists

Juniors Sharon Folkerts, soprano, and Ronald Mastin, tenor, will be featured soloists in the Paladilhe work "Benedictus."

"Muede bin Ich, geh' zur Ruh'," a German hymn, features soloist Karen Dettmer, senior. Continuing, the choir will present "Sing We Merrily Unto God" by Shaw, "There Is None Like Unto Thee" by Liemohn and "Thy Kingdom Come" by Jean Berger. Sharon Folkerts will repeat as soloist in "The Three Kings," arranged by Romeu.

List Optional Selections

Optional selections for the concert are "Jag er sa glad hver Julekveld," a Norwegian carol arranged by Hokanson, "Geisliches Wiegenlied," a German lullaby arranged by Krans, and "Tryggare kan Ingen vara," Swedish folk melody with solo by Dennis Larson, senior.

The concerts will conclude by the singing of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," arranged by Dr. Liemohn.

Hold The Presses

Drop the typewriters and hold the presses. Well, not everyone — just the TRUMPET staffers. In other words, there'll be a brief, but extremely important meeting of the entire staff in the Publications House Monday evening at 7.

Schield To Speak On 'Russia Today'

"Russia Today" will be the topic for Tuesday's convocation as Vern Schield, Waverly industrialist, will address students and faculty. Student Body and faculty meetings are scheduled for Thursday.

Schield, a partner in the Schield Bantam Company of Waverly, recently returned to the United States from an extended tour of Russia.

While in Russia, he visited industrial plants and was able to obtain many photographs and first-hand observations. Schield has spoken to numerous groups on his travel experiences, including a recent address before the Wartburg faculty.

K. Schmidt Writes For Youth Manual

Two articles for the 1957 edition of Youth Programs, Luther League Manual, will be written by the Rev. Karl Schmidt, head of the Wartburg Christianity Department.

Schmidt

Pastor Schmidt has submitted two articles, entitled "I Hate Myself" and "How God Answers Prayer," for the manual, which will be printed in one annual edition for the first time next year.

He has also written several articles for the Lutheran Standard in recent years.

Beginning by writing articles for a Sunday School column 10 years ago, Pastor Schmidt began editing his column, "My Bible and I," two years later. His 525th weekly article for this column was recently submitted.

Chellevold Attends Association Meet

Dr. John O. Chellevold, dean of faculty and head of the Mathematics Department, attended a meeting of the Iowa State Junior Colleges Association and the Department of Universities and Colleges of the Iowa State Education Association at Des Moines Friday.

He represented Wartburg among the Iowa institutions of higher learning in discussing ways and means of developing better understanding and cooperation between the junior colleges and four-year colleges.

Dr. Chellevold also attended the Mathematics Section of the Iowa State Education Association convention the same day in Des Moines.

Small World

BUT IN ISTANBUL NOT CONSTANTINOPLE

"Next time you're in Instanbul, look me up."

These might have been the words that Paul Weiblen, a surprised Wartburg alumnus, said to John Hiltner, Jr., when Hiltner "just happened" to drop in one day.

Actually, this foreign meeting of two old Wartburg students is a little more detailed than that. John, son of Wartburg's own Dr. John Hiltner, is studying for his doctorate at the University of Jerusalem through a special grant given by the Israeli Government. Study for his thesis, "Geography of the Middle East," already has taken Hiltner through many of these countries, including Turkey.

IN SWAN SONG

Volberding Climaxes Career

By Joan Pape

Climaxing a college career with Kastle Kapers, Gary Volberding is a good bet as an unforgettable member of the present Wartburg student body.

Volberding, an English major from Chicago, is active in a number of campus activities, including Pi Beta Epsilon, national honorary radio fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fraternity, and Wartburg Players.

Volberding, now ad manager of the TRUMPET, went into a local business establishment and introduced himself.

The reply came. "Oh, yes, I know you. You're that old radio man."

Comment On Radio

Although probably not the best terminology, it was actually a compliment to a person who has served as chief engineer of KWAR for one year and station manager for two years.

A dramatic production never goes by without the name of Volberding appearing on the program. The role of director has also fallen his way for a number of Wartburg productions — the Christmas play in 1953, Swing Show of two years ago, last year's children's play and Kastle Kapers last week.

As one of the members of the cast put it, "He's a very capable director — really knows what he is doing."

Takes Degree, Gives Cue

Hard working Gary plans to enter the field of radio production and direction after completing work in January for the bachelor of arts degree. He is already checking on job possibilities in Des Moines and Chicago.

"NOW LOOK, PAL," says Kastle Kapers director Gary Volberding as he confers with make-up director Don Oberdorfer, prior to last week's musical show in Knights Gym.

"All these activities will certainly be of value in this profession," said Volberding, "and I don't regret participation in any of them."

Calling this year's Kastle Kapers his "swan song," Volberding steps back for an unknown replacement, as he himself was four years ago at Wartburg, but the shoes will be pretty hard to fill.

Handwriting On The Wall

A few weeks ago the TRUMPET commented on the meaning of the word "responsibility" to the mature college student and to the little child.

References were made to several instances where student responsibility had broken down, or was in danger of doing so. Notable among these were the cancellation of the Pi Beta Epsilon Show and the poor showing of Band personnel at the first football game.

The TRUMPET wondered then whether the conduct of the students was mature or childish. No reference was made to the care and handling of college property. Perhaps there should have been, but it was assumed that even a child knows enough to take care of the house in which it lives.

Only the youngest children have to be scolded and told that it isn't right to scribble on the wall with pencil, paint or crayon. Yet one can occasionally see a "mature" Wartburger dragging a pencil along the wall as he descends a stairway in Luther Hall.

Only the most infantile personalities have to be remonstrated more than once or twice by their parents or elders about carving on the furniture. Yet the desks in Luther Hall are covered with the ugly woodworkings of "adult" college students who apparently have not yet grown out of that childhood stage.

The nine- or ten-year-old child quickly learns not to leave his tricycle or bicycle in front of the door. Still,, eight or nine years later, the child shows up at Wartburg in the guise of an "intelligent" student wiring dormitory doors shut or planting bicycle racks in the exit-way.

Now, the scribbled line on the walls of Luther Hall, the mutilated desks in the classrooms, the blocked dorm doors speak clearly enough as far as the offenders are concerned. They brand them as possessors of childish, thoughtless under-developed minds.

But they speak in an even louder voice against Wartburg College in general.

A few weeks ago when the dance issue was being debated, students said in effect to the Board of Regents and administration of the college, "Let us have dancing on campus, and we'll prove to you that even a touchy problem like this can be handled in a decent, mature manner."

Nice words. True words, we believe. But these words are almost drowned out by the silent shout of the scribbling and scrawling of thoughtless students. The regents and the administrators look at these things and ask, "Are these the marks of a RESPONSIBLE Student Body?"

Perhaps when we have shown that we have been "faithful over a few things," they will be more likely to give us "charge over many."

KNIGHT BEAT

by Bob Losko

After three years of inseparable comradeship, something has finally happened to break up the unity of Vollmer House. Last Tuesday, half of the Vollmerians came home from the first Young Democrats Club meeting bearing huge 18- by 24-inch portraits of Adlai and Estes and proceeded to display them in the lounge. The Republican contingent decided that this was not the thing to do, and after much arguing a flailing fist fight got started. Everybody was so mad that he couldn't see well enough to land a blow.

Unity, however, was restored when Vollmer House was attacked on Halloween with rotten tomatoes. The fellows stormed out of the house and managed to corner one of the attackers in Riverside Park. With adversaries to the left, right and front of him, and the river back of him, he yanked off his shoes, turned around and jumped (head first) into the Cedar River. Dumb college kids.

After flunking their mid-semester examination in Latin, several members of Dr. Hiltner's class formed a "Past Perfect" club — We have had it.

But then a vet merely referred to the days of his mid-semesters as "D Day."

"Even into the life of a hopeless wretch comes that fleeting moment when he feels he has the blood of a king and the dignity of a swan. And then, my friends, empires rumble at their very foundations." Sometimes a person who is not of German descent, feels lost at Warthurg. But last week's outbreak makes this columnist feel proud that he is of 100 per cent Hungarian ancestry.

Of course there is this week's little uprising that makes all young, draft eligible college students worry a little. Maybe our motto should be a paraphrasing of the Communist cry: Something like, "Yankee, stay home."

If you feel bad about the Warthurg loss at Homecoming, consider my father, who gave up a ticket on the 40-yard line of the Illinois-Michigan State game to watch the Central game. At last report, they were still celebrating in Champaign-Urbana.

Homecoming had its moment of horror for one of the college custodians as he walked into a girls' rest room late Friday night to clean it. He got the surprise of his life as he stepped on a "body" in the dark. It proved to be only part of the fishpond decoration the girls in Wartburg Hall had left for safekeeping.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

War And Pieces

By Don Oberdorfer

One of our more brilliant students quoted a famous saying not too long ago. "There's no more peace in the Middle East than prosperity in the Middle West."

Last week, the world was stunned to hear about the revolt staged in Poland against Kremlin oppression which soon spread into nearby Hungary and exploded with unmatched violence. A few days ago, Old Man World found himself sitting on another boiling pot.

Oberdorfer

England, frustrated after having been pushed out of the Suez Canal by Gamal Nasser of Egypt, began to think of some "subtle" ways in which it could again get its claws on the vital world life line. After having started to mobilize its forces, it ran up against the foreboding features of our own dear John Dulles. Dulles, a favorite of everyone after his continued "take it easy" policy, again endeared himself to our allies by advocating his age-old policy.

England, anxious to regain its hold on the Suez Canal and having to face criticism at home, suddenly issued an ultimatum to attacking Israeli forces and defending Egyptians to withdraw all troops in 12 hours or suffer the consequences. Now, it doesn't take any genius to realize that Nasser would not pull away from his recently acquired gold mine. Suddenly, before the United States or anyone else knew about it — England attacked Egypt.

The question which now arises is—why in the world would Israel attack Egypt and draw England and France into the fight? As many think, this may have been a put up job between England and Israel. This would give England that opportunity to regain her hold on the Suez Canal while (in case of victory) Israel would get more land from the defeated Arabian bloc, probably in Jordan, and would be able to expand its frontiers. It is facing its frontiers and finds that they are hardly big enough.

Many people don't seem to realize, however, that this may easily plunge us into another war. The thing to be done, as Eisenhower has said, is to localize the trouble, keep our fingers out of the pot and hope that the countries involved will have enough sense to take note of their predicament and solve it in a sensible manner.

Knight Gridders To Simpson; Ten Games Since Victory

By Bill Melvin
Sports Editor

Wartburg hopes to end a 10-game victory drought this afternoon at Indianola when the Knights meet Simpson's Redmen in an Iowa Conference battle.

Coach Johansen's squad, which hasn't scored a victory since defeating Central 12-0 last season, is weakened for today's encounter by the loss of several key performers.

Veteran tackle Al Limberg has been lost for the game due to illness, and quarterback Art Margheim is listed as very doubtful by Johansen because of an injury received in last week's game with Central.

Knights Lose Pelland

Knights have also felt the recent loss of freshman tackle Earl Pelland, who dropped school to go into military service.

"Simpson has a very strong team this year," commented Johansen, "and they have some dangerous backs."

Quarterback Chuck Burnett has paced the Redmen this season. Running from Coach Hap Miller's short punt formation, Burnett has scored six touchdowns and is in the thick of the conference scoring race.

Bishop Poses Threat

Larry Bishop, a speedy halfback, will present another problem to the Knights. He has contributed 21 points to the Redmen's cause thus far.

Simpson now boasts a record of 4-1 and is tied for second place in the Iowa Conference race with Iowa Wesleyan. One of Simpson's victories, however, was a 32-6 smashing of first-place Central.

Luther has been the only team to down the Redmen, turning the trick at Decorah, 20-14. The other Simpson victories have come over Parsons 13-6, Upper Iowa 26-19 and Buena Vista 13- 7.

NUMBERS WERE SMALL but enthusiasm ran high this morning as early-rising pep ralliers saw Knight gridders off with yells of "Sink Simpson."

Dutch Too Much; Knights Lose 20-7

Central moved into undisputed first place in the Iowa Conference last Saturday with a 20-7 victory over Wartburg at Waverly Municipal Field.

The Dutchmen marched 75 yards in the second quarter to break a 7-7 tie and end Wartburg's hope for an upset. Hard-hitting fullback LaVern Boelkens capped the march with a one-yard plunge for the lead touchdown.

Wartburg was unable to move in the second half with Margheim sidelined with an injury. The Dutch, however, added an insurance touchdown in the third period when Morehead completed a screen pass to Bob Carle, who raced 17 yards for the final tally.

Thirty-Two Report For Cage Practice

Basketball Coach Ax Bundgaard greeted 32 aspiring candidates at Wartburg's opening basketball session Thursday afternoon.

Reporting for the opening practice were nine members returning from last year's squad and 23 newcomers. Three more veterans are expected to report later.

Klingman

Art Margheim and Roger Klingman will join the squad at the end of the football campaign, and Bill Bomhoff is expected to report in about a week when he finishes his student coaching assignment.

Veterans at the opening practice include Al Bahlmann, Maynard Midtgaard, Mel Frahm, John Adix, Jim Schwarz, Wayne Slack, Duane Boehmke, Dennis Wessels and Gil Wessel.

Tallest man on the squad is John Tuecke, a freshman from Garnavillo. Tuecke's slender frame stretched Bundgaard's tape measure to 6'7".

Dutch Climb To Top Spot

Conference leader Iowa Wesleyan dropped from the league top last Saturday when beaten by Dubuque 23-7. As a result of the loss, Iowa Wesleyan relinquished the lead to Central and fell into a second-place tie with Simpson. Following are last week's results and other conference data:

Gosskor Songs Thrill Crowd

By Harold Kurtz
Managing Editor

They came from Sweden to Waverly to sing. And they sang. Bach, Handel and Mozart. But those composers were incidental. It was with the songs of such composers as Rangstrom and Lampart and Henriques and the songs of anonymous writers that these kids made music come to life.

Appearing as the first number of the Wartburg College Artist Series, the Stockholm Gosskor delighted a Homecoming audience of 2,500 in Knights Gymnasium Sunday night as they sang their way through some two dozen songs.

Showmanship excelled as the boys choir used everything from syncopated processionals to echo solos in producing effects ranging from unusual to beautiful. Especially noteworthy was the encore "Behold a Host Arrayed in White," sung by a trio with an echo solo.

Folksong Delightful

"Delightful" is an apt description of the folksong "Uti var bag dar vaxa bla bar," which the chorus attacked with all the enthusiasm of a Swedish hoedown.

Backstage a blur of Swedish filled the air as English became the forgotten language. Helge Brilioth was one of the few who spoke English.

"I'm still a student at the Gosskor myself," he said, "but some day I hope to do more concert work. Actually, the organ, not the piano, is my favorite instrument."

In a talk with the tour manager, it was pointed out that the group was severely cramped for time on its tour. School regulations permit the boys to miss only six weeks of class. although two tutors accompany the choir.

Tutor Comments

One of the teachers backstage remarked, "At all of the hotels where we stayed, they told us what a bunch of nice boys we have. We agree, but sometimes we wonder . . ."

The boys themselves, angelic as they may have appeared to the audience, were apparently no different from any similar group of American boys as their lively backstage conduct indicated.

If any conclusion can be drawn, it is that boys are boys regardless—except that these can sing quite a bit better.

SLEEP OR SING, Gosskor does both.

Alumni Officials Elected At Homecoming Meeting

Walter Fredrick, Garnavillo, was elected president at the Wartburg College Alumni Association meeting at Carver's Restaurant last Saturday. Also elected were the Rev. Bruno Schlachtenhaufen, Waterloo, vice president, and Ray Downing, Waverly, treasurer.

According to Norm Fintel, Alumni secretary, two actions were taken of vital importance to the college and to the Alumni Association. The first was the addition of a full-time Director of Alumni Affairs, and the second was the establishment of an Alumni Study Committee to assist in planning a long-range development of Wartburg College.

Purpose of the newly adopted alumni study committee is to supplement any work done by faculty or administration committees. It hopes to give the administration additional helpful sentiment toward future size information about the alumni and the direction of academic life at Wartburg College, according to Fintel.

Elected to the Board of Directors were Hildegard Moehl, Waverly, representing the Illinois District; Helen Drewelow, Madison, Wis., representing the Wisconsin District; and Omar Bonderud, Columbus, Ohio, member-at-large.

Look Sharp -- Snap; Tales Wants Pics

It's a snap — for shutterbugs, that is.

Castle Tales, campus literary magazine, is sponsoring a photography contest with two divisions for photos. Winning pics will be published in Castle Tales.

Deadline for pictures is Dec. 15. Further information may be obtained from Editor John Polis, senior. Polis also commented that cartoons and art illustrations are also needed.

Over 200 To Attend Senior Day Saturday

Annual Fall Senior Day, Saturday, Nov. 10, will be the occasion for about two hundred prospective college students to gain information about Wartburg College and to counsel with educators about careers.

Underwater Picture On Specialty Series

Dimitri Rebikoff, inventor of the motion picture underwater torpedo, will be at Wartburg College Sunday, Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. to narrate his color film "Secrets of the Underwater World—The Red Sea" as the first of Wartburg's Specialty Series.

The underwater color films depict the true colors of the sea bottom. Credited with 55 patents dealing with underwater photography and exploration, Rebikoff is a French photographer, engineer and undersea expert. He is director of the Submarine Research Institute of Cannes, France.

In a part of the Red Sea where no one had ever dived, existed an unknown world. Rebikoff and his party invaded this underwater world, equipped with aqualungs and motion picture torpedoes, and came up with remarkable films taken at depths of 120 feet and more.

Schmidt Accepts Recital Invitation

Warren Schmidt, Music Department, has accepted an invitation from Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, to present an organ concert next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The concert will be a feature of the annual Founders Day at the Seminary and will be presented in Loche Chapel. Schmidt's program will include numbers by Bach, Hindemith and Vierni.

Harms At Confab

Miss Mattie Harms, registrar and director of the Wartburg Placement Bureau, attended a meeting of the Iowa Institutional Teacher Placement Association Thursday afternoon in Des Moines.
